Module-I

GLOVISH TECHNOLOGIES LLP

Python Programming

Course Syllabus and Planner
for 4th sem BCA

Course Overview

The Python Programming curriculum is a one-semester course covering topics typically found in introductory computer programming (coding) courses. Other introductory programming courses are not required; students merely need to have typical computer usage skills prior to starting this course. Python Programming is designed for middle or high school students in 9th to 12th grade.

Teaching Strategies

The course material is designed to appeal to a variety of students, from traditional learners who thrive on written text to audio-visual students who enjoy a multi-media format. All content is delivered through an online system that allows students to work seamlessly both in the classroom and at home.

Labs and Programming Environment

The chosen programming language is Python 3.x (<https://www.python.org/>).

Each lesson contains hands-on coding opportunities ("Work with Me" sections). An online Python engine is made available within the lesson text and web browser interface, so students do not normally need to install any local Python software or manage local Python source files.

Every chapter contains one or more hands-on programming labs where students will design or implement programs to demonstrate understanding of the lesson topics. These labs use the same online Python engine as the lesson exercises and are automatically graded by our system.

Assessments

The course contains automated lesson quizzes and chapter tests and an electronic grade book.

Supplemental Lessons and State Standards

The main chapters concentrate on Python programming and computer science topics. Certain states may require additional topics ranging from computing ethics and security to career exploration to the impact of computers on modern society. The course contains additional supplemental chapters at the end that can optionally be used to meet common state requirements. Teachers may choose to assign Supplemental Lessons as desired to meet state standards or student interest.

The final "Creative Project" is optional and can be completed in small groups or individually. Working in small groups is sometimes required by state standards. This project can be scaled up or down to meet available class times. The Creative Project is not auto-graded by our system, so teachers will be responsible for assigning these project grades.

Course Planner

A typical school semester consists of approximately 18 calendar weeks or 90 days of school. The course plan covers approximately 65 to 90 school days, depending on which supplemental lessons and creative projects are incorporated into the class plan. Some classes may move faster or slower than the suggested pace.

The planner assumes students are working daily with approximately 45 to 60 minutes of class time. In most cases, the planner estimates one day per lesson (including the lesson quiz), one day per graded chapter activity (lab), and one day per chapter test. Some larger labs are assigned more time.

their performance and confidence level, they have been categorized in 4 teams. Team 1 includes the students who are proficient and confident. Team 2 consists of students who were second best. Team 3 includes the students who are capable but they lack confidence and need that extra push. Team 4 comprises of those students who are slightly passive and they need special care as their basic drawback is communication skill. A little extra care from the mentors, teachers and placement officers can do wonders for all these students. Considering the performance of the students in the GDs from the beginning of the day to the end of the workshop, it can only be said that there was a giant leap. They learnt to think out of the box for any given topic from controversial to abstract to case studies. Apart from that, they learnt to play a leadership role in the GDs, became more assertive in their verbal as well as body language. Most noteworthy breakthrough was noticed in the way different students initiated the GDs in different ways. Even the few initially diffident participants of team 3 & 4 also broke out from their shells and initiated a GD confidently. This significant change could be noticed for all the students due to video recording of the discussion and review the same during every session.

The students also learnt the technicalities of interviews, especially personality based questions, noted down model answers that were dictated to them, created their own answers for most FAQs and handled questions with relative ease during the mock interview session.

Suggested Action Plan

3 teams with a team leader in each team have been created, based on their performance levels. The other teams can watch the GD and learn in the process. This would mean that there would be at least 3 GDs per month and 36 GDs over a span of 6 months. If the students diligently participate in the same, their confidence and other skills would automatically increase. The teachers and the students have been requested to feel free to revert to us if any assistance is required.

We wish all the students the very best in their careers. Needless to say, our support can be counted on anytime.

Studies have shown that on an average an individual uses 75-20% of his/her potential and a larger part of the potential remains untapped. There is therefore a need to help people realize their full potential. Developing oneself as a productive individual and an an effective team player is the key to all success. Though there are various indoor training methodologies through which one can build a powerful personality. This was one such initiative. Participants experienced different activities and therefore learn a lot of messages which they could implement in their own personal life and academics. Some of the biggest learning was to work in team and helping each other to succeed. The idea of this program was to bring the oneness and build team spirit among the students.

Everyone has heard to succeed, you need a plan. Why then do so few of us take the time to identify our goals and make a plan for reaching them? This training module helped the students in setting goals in a very scientific manner and helps to create an action plan to make your goals realities. The three clear objectives of the program were:

- To help participants set personal educational and career goals
- To train them in self – motivation techniques
- To help them excel in life

This being Rahul Kapoor's signature he not only helped the students to set goals but also trained them on the 8 steps to goal setting and also gave them techniques on how to motivate themselves to achieve them.

The EDP Series I had some intense modules on Team Dynamics, Goal Setting, Business Etiquette, Success with Values and Effective Communication. Below are some of the take away for the students in each session:

Team Dynamics:

Studies have shown that on an average an individual uses 15-20% of his/her potential and a larger part of the potential remains untapped. There is therefore a need to help people realize their full potential. Developing oneself as a productive individual and as an effective team player is the key to all success. methodologies through which one can build a powerful personality. This was one such initiative.

Participants experienced different activities and therefore learnt a lot of messages which they could implement in their own personal life and academics. Some of the biggest learning was to work in team and helping each other to succeed. The idea of this program was to bring the oneness and build team spirit among the students.

Goal Setting Skills

Everyone has heard to succeed, you need a plan. Why then do so few of us take the time to identify our goals and make a plan for reaching them? This training module helped the students in setting goals in a very scientific manner and helps you create an action plan to make your goals realities. The three clear objectives of the program were:

- ✓ To help participants set personal educational and career goals
- ✓ To train them in self-motivation techniques
- ✓ To help them excel in life

This being Rahul Kapoor's signature he not only helped the students to set goals but also trained them on the 8 steps to goal setting and also gave them techniques on how to motivate themselves to achieve them.

Business Etiquette

Understand the principles of business etiquette, recognize the importance of first impressions, understand appropriate workplace behavior and rules of privacy and property and learn how to cultivate relationships and build rapport with people. These were the top focus on this program and the program also covered the following aspects:

- Giving and receiving a business card
- Art of shaking hands
- Power dressing tips
- Improve networking skills
- Telephonic conversation
- Social conversations and celebrating success

The highlight of this program was to:

- ✓ Develop Leadership traits

Effective Communication and Corporate Culture

Communication has become an important aspect of development and progress.

Management across the various industries have realized that effective communication skill among people not only helps them in communicating well, but also helps in maintaining better interpersonal relations at the personal life and at workplace.

This program had Dale Carnegie techniques which will make an individual to communicate better to achieve success in life. Some of the key take aways were:

General report of the workshop

This report consists of the status and outcome of the workshop and a suggested action plan. Four rounds of GDs and several mock interviews for every student were conducted. Based on their performance and confidence level, they have been categorized in 4 teams. Team 1 includes the students who are proficient and confident. Team 2 consists of students who were second best. Team 3 includes the students who are capable but they lack confidence and need that extra push. Team 4 comprises of those students who are slightly passive and they need special care as their basic drawback is communication skill. A little extra care from the mentors, teachers and placement officers can do wonders for all these students. Considering the performance of the students in the GDs from the beginning of the day to the end of the workshop, it can only be said that there was a giant leap. They learnt to think out of the box for any given topic from controversial to abstract to case studies. Apart from that, they learnt to play a leadership role in the GDs, became more assertive in their verbal as well as body language. Most noteworthy breakthrough was noticed in the way different students initiated the GDs in different ways. Even the few initially diffident participants of team 3 & 4 also broke out from their shells and initiated a GD confidently. This significant change could be noticed for all the students due to video recording of the discussion and review the same during every session.

The students also learnt the technicalities of interviews, especially personality based questions, noted down model answers that were dictated to them, created their own answers for most FAQs and handled questions with relative ease during the mock interview session.

Suggested Action Plan

3 teams with a team leader in each team have been created, based on their performance levels. The other teams can watch the GD and learn in the process. This would mean that there would be at least 3 GDs per month and 18 GDs over a span of 6 months. If the students diligently participate in the same, their confidence and other skills would automatically increase. The teachers and the students have been requested to feel free to revert to us if any assistance is required.

As far as interviews are concerned, the students were asked to thoroughly prepare the most important questions that were discussed, 2 students from each section and made representatives who will conduct the round of GD's and Interviews and weekly updates will be made on email by these representatives and feedback will be shared accordingly. We wish all the students the very best in their careers. Needless to say, our support can be counted on anytime.

The Bottom Line

Considering the feedback of the students as well as the assessment of the trainers the workshop can be undoubtedly called successful from both ends.

Level-1 Holistic Personality Development workshop by Disha at SRN Adarsh Evening College, Chamarajpet, Bangalore

1) Introduction to Disha

Disha Charitable Trust is a non-profit social initiative founded with the motive to reach out to the student community (high-school to college), emphasizing the importance of value based education. Disha offers its deliverables on the themes of know yourself, country and culture. 2017

Workshops at SRN

With immense pleasure, we would like to say that Disha has successfully completed two one-day Level-1 Holistic Personality Development workshops at SRN Adarsh Evening College. This has been our third consecutive year of association with the SRN group of institutions at Chamarajpet, Bangalore; and we would like to continue for many more years in the future.

a) Day 1 & 2: Forenoon Sessions

Day-1 (18-7-2017) had first year B-Com students as participants and on the second day (19-7-2017) it was BCA and BBA classes from the first to the third years.

The program on both days commenced around 10:15 AM at the college auditorium after a brief address by the College Principal. The program started off with a brief introduction followed by 45 minutes of Yoga and Meditation practice for all assembled students facilitated by Yogacharya Shri Subramanian. The students could participate in the session though majority of them did not have any introduction to yoga earlier. The students then participated in singing a song on the spirit of service to humanity. This was followed by Group Counselling sessions in smaller groups of up to 10 to 12 members with our team of trained counsellors. The boys and girls were in separate groups. In this session, they were taken through an inward journey of knowing themselves by way of asking a few relevant questions and encouraging participation from every student.

On day one, after the commencement of the sessions we found that there were a significant number of differently abled students who had difficulty in listening and/ or speaking, and thus in following our sessions throughout the day. Therefore, during counselling, most of the ...ents facilitated communication with them. Most of the students said that this was the first time they underwent counselling, even in groups. However, they liked the session and were happy at being able to express themselves openly and freely for the first time. For many, it was an eye opener in self-awareness and being open-minded.

The next session was Namaste Quiz on India where there was overwhelming participation from students on both the days. The profound messages given at the end of each answer were quite appreciated by students. Some of them have expressed interests in finding out more about the rich history and heritage of the country as well as in being cultural ambassadors of our country for the future.

b) Day 1 & 2: Afternoon Sessions

Post lunch was an interactive audio-visuals session where students watched small video clips and interacted based on their observations, key message/ theme and learnings. The students, by and large, exhibited good skills in identifying/ understanding the right perspective behind each of the audio-visual clipping that was shown. The next was games for about 30 minutes including mental and physical games. Most of the students could participate and learn from the messages given at the end of each of them. At the end of the session some of them expressed surprise at their own abilities in playing physical games (boys inclusive). The final session of the day was a 45-minute address to the students by Srimati Bekha Ramachandran, founder of Disha Charitable Trust, giving the key take home message of the entire day's program. This was followed by a brief few minutes where the students shared their feedback (expectations, likes/ dislikes and learnings) from the program.

As if the students exhibited great enthusiasm to participate in all the sessions. Some of them expressed that they had different expectations at the beginning of the day but the program took them to a different level where they had learning with fun. Quite a few of them shared that they had a transformational day where the lessons/ learnings they have had from the program would help them for a lifetime.

From Disha's point of view, we see a progressive positive trend in the enthusiasm and selective participation among students on our program. The current batches of students are highly aware of nation building and their role in the same. Out of 160 students who participated in the two-day program, many of them voluntarily took an oath to see a change in themselves and in doing good for our country. At least a handful of them have expressed interest in being a part of Disha and contributing in small ways that they can right from now.
